

Paper Assignment

Write a short, one to two page paper on the differences between block-level storage and file-level storage and object storage. Make sure that you list examples of each that we have discussed this semester. Include any references.